FENIMORE'S FOLLY

"GAD zooks!" All of Zooville was buzzing with the news. "Isn't it the most amazing thing! A Dreams-Come-True machine!"

Fenimore Frog sat and sulked. He'd been excited about it, too, until he'd heard who invented it. That dope, Dunbar Dodo, was the famous inventor of this amazing new machine. As soon as he'd heard about it, Fenimore had rushed over to Dodo's house.

"Yoo-hoo!" he'd called. The house was empty.

"Out here. Out here in my workshop, Fenimore!" came an answering voice.

And there Fenimore had found Dunbar, in a specially-built shack out in his back yard. Inside it Dunbar was putting the finishing touches on his invention.

"How does it work?" asked the Frog.

"Very simple, my dear fellow," Dodo replied modestly. "I press the lever . . . here, you see . . . like this . . . and then my machine is in action!"

"It must be a lot more complicated than you say, Dunbar. After all, it took you all these months to make it!"

"Well, yes, Fenimore, this thingamagig here was sort of tricky . . . and this lever here, I thought I'd never get it right . . . and—"

Fenimore interrupted him. "Dunbar, I'm an old, old pal of yours. How's about letting me borrow your Dreams-Come-True machine tonight?"

"Why, certainly, Fenimore! Just put it on the pillow next to you when you go to sleep. Press this lever, the big one, see? While you're asleep, the machine will start working on your dreams. Then when you wake up, it's all set. You just press down this other lever, the small one here on the other side of the machine—"

"And then the dreams I dreamed during the night will come true?"

"Absolutely!"

Fenimore Frog took the machine home with him and followed Dodo's directions. In the morning he'd pressed the small lever and a wonderful dream came true! He'd dreamed that a fairy had flown in through the window and given him a solid gold scooter! And sure enough! The machine buzzed . . . and . . . yessir! in through the window sailed the same fairy with the same solid gold scooter . . . only this time, it was all real!

So now the amazing machine had been returned to its inventor, and Fenimore sat sulking on the curb, listening to all the people around him admiring Dunbar and his machine. At last Fenimore could stand it no longer. He decided he would steal that machine. He got up and started stealthily for Dodo's workshop.

In the meantime, however, a lot had been happening to Dunbar Dodo. He knew Fenimore only too well, for he'd known him a long time—long enough to know that now that Fenimore had seen for himself what a marvelous machine it was, he would never rest content until he'd stolen it for himself! So Dodo had spent the whole day installing a burglary alarm system in his workshop. It was a hard job. When he went to bed that night, he was very tired—but not too tired to turn on his Dreams-Come-True machine. He'd pressed the big lever. But then—he'd had a nightmare! In his nightmare he had fallen down a flight of stairs and bumped his noggin!

When Dunbar woke up in the morning, he'd forgotten about his bad dream . . . that is, he forgot about it until after he'd pressed down the small lever on the Dreams-Come-True machine. Then, suddenly, he recalled his nightmare!

"Oh no!" he shouted. "Oh no, oh no! I don't want that terrible nightmare to come true! No!"

But it was too late. Dunbar had invented his machine too well. It buzzed . . . and then . . . a flight of stairs loomed in front of him . . . and DOWN, DOWN, DOWN he fell!

Well, the next night Fenimore Frog crept towards Dunbar's workshop. He opened the door. He put his hand on the machine. RING! RING! DING! DONG! WHOOOOO! Bells rang and sirens blew! Fenimore knew he was caught! That dopey Dunbar wasn't so dumb, after all! He'd installed a burglar alarm! Yes, Fenimore observed grouchily, here he comes now!

But Fenimore got the surprise of his life. For when Dunbar came to the workshop, he simply rubbed the sleep out of his eyes and smiled.

"Hi, Fenimore!" he said. "You stealing my machine? Fine! Go right ahead!" And, turning on his heels, Dunbar said good night and marched back to bed!

All the way home Fenimore kept laughing as he thought about how stupid the Dodo was, letting him get away with the machine this way. "It's my machine now!" he gloated.

But little did he know what Dunbar was saying to himself, as he crawled back into bed. "Good riddance to that horrid machine! Fenimore's welcome to it! I was stupid to invent it in the first place! Dreams aren't meant to come true!" And Dunbar Dodo couldn't help smiling, thinking of how surprised Fenimore Frog would be on the morning after the night of his first terrible nightmare!

THE ASTOUNDING SCIENCE-FICTION ANTHOLOGY. A story about the first A-Bomb . . . written before it was invented! Plus a score of the best tales from a dozen years of Astounding Science Fiction Magazine by its editor, John W. Campbell, Jr.

COSTIGAN'S NEEDLE, by Jerry Sohl — The amazing Dr. Costigan invented a "needle" that could make your hand disappear. So they spent a million dollars to build a BIG one . . . and it made a whole MAN disappear!

THE SECOND FOUNDATION by Isaac Asimov—The terrible genius called the "Mule" had conquered almost the entire Galaxy. Only one civilization had escaped his evil clutches. How could they stop this mad man?

RING AROUND THE SUN, by Clifford D. Simak — They begged Bob Vickers to help destroy the "mutants" — a strange new race with mysterious powers. But then Bob found that he himself was a mutant!

THIS ISLAND EARTH, by Raymond F. Jones—You're an engineer working on a secret project. When your girl becomes suspicious of your employers, they kidnap her. Then your plane is swallowed up in mid-air by a GIANT FLYING SAUCER!

WORLD OUT OF MIND, by J. T. McIntosh—Fifty thousand strange creatures from Outer Space (disguised as human beings) infiltrate Earth's society to prepare the way for invasion. And one of them wins the world's highest office!

SANDS OF MARS, by Arthur C. Clarke — You're the first Earth-Man to rocket-crash onto the wild Martian desert —the first to find yourself face-to-face with — a living MARTIAN!

THE MIXED MEN, by A. E. Van Vogt—ONE of the million planets in inter-stellar space is inhabited. Your job is to find out which one and contact these "humans." But they're ready with every trick in inter-stellar science to STOP YOU!
